

Project Crossovers Apprentice's blog

08/07/2014

So we're currently working on the newest track 'Is anyone out there' to be performed at the Summer Jam on the 29th of July. The guy who provides the vocals on the song had to leave early last week so I took over the vocals for him and Anna asked me to do the vocals on our summer place track. I requested some artistic licence to have a play around with the lyrics. I will have to work hard to create some tongue lyrics.....

So far I've come up with...

Sand in my towels

Sand in my shoes

Sand in my knickers

Sand in my food

Obviously there's still much to create... I'm going to try to create some more this week.

15/07/2014

Last week we rehearsed 'Is anyone out there' and 'High noon in Devonport'. We've decided we're definitely going to perform both of these songs at the summer jam. I've been taking my midi Keyboard along to each Reverb session as it allows me more musicianship. Towards the end of the session the lads were discussing how they'd met up some time during the previous week and chased pigeons. So I suggested after the summer we write a song about chasing pigeons, which everyone really liked...

SHOW YOUR SUPPORT FOR MUSIC MAKING A DIFFERENCE
www.plymouthmusiczone.org.uk

